TO: our sisters of the RAT Women's Collective

FROM: Katherine A. Power and Susan E. Saxe of the Revolutionary Action Force (RAF)

Dear Sisters,

We are writing this letter to communicate to our sisters and brothers (especially our three comrades, Stanley R. Bond, William Gilday, and Robert Valeri, who are prisoners of war in the hands of the Amerikan government) that we are alive and safe, and prepared to continue the struggle for the freedom of all political prisoners in Pig Amerika.

We now have the time and means to get ourselves together militarily and physically, and we can do this knowing that there are other revolutionaries inside the country who will go on fighting as they have been doing for many years. It will be a long war, but we will win!

In the past month we have become even more convinced than ever of the revolutionary potential of the People of Amerika. This despite the fact that we personally have been exposed and hunted by the pigs, making it harder for us to act openly.

But we know from our experience that there are good brave people everywhere who will sacrifice all comfort and security to the common goals of the Revolution. We have found them in many places, under many different identities. Their names must remain unknown, but they are there, underground, beneath the streets of every city, working with love and determination to undermine and cut away the rotten foundations of Pig Amerika.

We have also learned much about what it means to be a revolutionary. A true revolutionary is someone who has no stake whatsoever in a class society. Blacks in this country are in that position already. As women, we found ourselves in the same situation. As middle-class whites, we learned that it was necessary to throw off all the things that tied us to the pig world, not only all personal property (that is the easiest part) but our families, our past and our future. In doing this we have found incredible freedom. We have no future now but the Revolution, and no family but the People.

Our message to all revolutionaries is:

Keep your faith — keep fighting and know that you are not alone. We are with you as you are with us.

All power to the People!

With revolutionary faith and love,

Katherine A. Power and Susan E. Saxe
